

Happening's In the Office of Attorney General Steve Carter

June 18, 2007

Carter's Efforts Praised in Seeking a Public Accounting of Casino Revenue given to East Chicago Second Century

EDITORIAL: Second Century needs to give up its struggle for control of casino cash
The issue: East Chicago casino money

Our opinion: The city and Indiana Attorney General Steve Carter need to keep pushing for that casino money, and East Chicago Second

Click here to read the full Editorial.

"Why is Second Century crying foul if indeed the public's benefit has been served by its activity over the years?" Carter said. "It should be touting its projects and showcasing the economic development."

Carter Hosts National Conference for Prosecutors on Public Corruption and Racketeering Laws

Indiana Attorney General Steve Carter and Notre Dame Law Professor G. Robert Blakey at NAAG Inaugural RICO Conference

Attorney General Steve Carter Hosted the National Association of Attorneys General (NAAG) Racketeering and Influenced Corrupt Organization Act (RICO) Inaugural Conference.

The conference for prosecutors covered criminal and civil RICO issues.

Carter raised awareness of public corruption through his presidential initiative with NAAG when he served as president in 2005-2006.

In 2004, Carter filed the first civil RICO action naming a city as a corrupt enterprise.

Click here to read an article from the Northwest Indiana Times on the RICO case.

Carter Seeks to Return Millions of Lost and Forgotten Assets to Hoosiers

Countless Hoosiers have checked the public database at IndianaUnclaimed.com for lost or forgotten assets. But many may be surprised to learn that even though they checked last year, there may be new assets belonging to them now.

Although more than $20.5 million was returned last year to owners of unclaimed property in more than 30 counties in central Indiana, more than $17.1 million of new assets with last known addresses from central Indiana has been turned over to the state.

Click here to read an article from the Indianapolis Star about unclaimed property.